Lower California

[From Wilkes Sig for December 29th]

It was a matter of great surprise to the nation that a territory of such abounding advantages and enjoying such a commanding position on the northwest coast should apparently have escaped the attention of the United States Commissioners who were appointed to negotiate the purchase of Upper California or, in other words that it should not have engaged their utmost efforts to add to the coming State of which it was the obvious natural appendage But singular to say they passed it by and every Californian who takes any pride in the prospective glories of his coast, and every statesman of any forecast in America has never since ceased to regret the stupid oversight that thus imperiled to us the command of the Pacific The Peninsula of California consequently remains still unwakened by the touch of progress but though thus torpid for the moment it is not destined to remain sleeping for ever on the very edge of day A company of influential American citizens acting upon information of the most reliable character as to the resources and characteristics of Lower California, have secured a grant of all the vacant lands therein, with quasi governmental powers, which will not only enable them to develop the resources of those lands and mines and of those islands, fisheries and harbors but will empower the company to govern the colonists who come within their jurisdiction, with equal control and success as the Hudson's Bay or the great East Indian Company

The Peninsula of Lower California extends downward from the thirty second to the twenty third parallel of north latitude and it has an average width of about ninety miles The grant obtained within this vast region is bounded on the north by the thirty first degree of north latitude, and on the south by twenty four degrees twenty minutes thus excluding from the whole of the peninsula only one degree on the north, and one degree and twenty minutes on the south, leaving in bulk to the company for its colonizing purposes and its privileges, the enormous amount of forty six thousand eight hundred square miles of land A territory which, to use the enthusiastic words of Ramon de Vega "far exceeds all the illusory foundation of the South Sea Bubble and the Mississippi scheme, and unlike those baseless visions is an actual realized empire of gold silver, and pearl"

The grant which conveys this enormous tract to the American Company was made by the Government of President Juarez on the 30th of March, 1864 This it will be observed, was during the original and undisputed term of Juarez, more than two months before the arrival of Maximilian in Mexico (3d of June, 1864) and before even the bogus vote of the "Notables" was taken (April 10, 64) inviting him to come "Juarez, therefore, when this grant was made, was not only sovereign de facto but also sovereign de jure of Mexico As such all his legal acts were binding against his Government, under every established rule of public law, whoever might succeed him "To suppose the contrary of this," says one of the highest legal authorities of the United States, "to suppose that each successive President of the Mexican Republic is to undo the official acts of his predecessor, is to presume that Mexico has sunk into such a state as to render her continued existence in the family of nations unendurable" To this we would add that the United States Government has recognized the Government of Juarez as the only legitimate Government of Mexico, and while we are bound to hold that Government to such of its engagements as run in favor of American citizens, we are likewise bound, by every instinct of paternal power, to require of every Mexican Administration which may succeed the Government of Juarez, a ratification of all lawfully acquired American privileges as "conditions precedent" to the recognition of such incoming Government This view of the matter is taken by such distinguished publicists as Robert J. Walker, Caleb Cushing, and General B F Butler, and it is under the pressure of these convictions that such shrewd and deliberate men as C h Garrison, William B Traverse, Francis Morris, John Anderson, David Crawford Leonard W Jerome, August Belmont, Ben Holladay, Edward S Sanford John B Garland, A C Stimson, Richard Schell, and others, have each invested their personal money in this grant It will be observed that these men, and the company which they have formed, have made no fuss, and sought no publicity for their enterprise Whatever has got into the papers on the subject has obtained such publicity without their motion or consent, and they simply go along, quietly fortifying themselves in their acquisition, without asking favors from any one whoever The chief of these steps, after acquiring the grant, was to pay the first installment of the purchase money to Romero under the roof of the Mexican Legation in Washington, and the next was to acquire the ratification of that transaction by the Supreme Government of Mexico, at Chihuahua This latter act was done by President Juarez, on the 4th of August last, and an "order of possession" directed to the Governor of Lower California, was forwarded to the Company in October last

The company, being thus in possession of all the authority it required, have selected Commissioners to serve this "order" on the Governor of Lower California by way of taking judicial possession of their empire, and at the same time have engaged a competent exploring party, under the command of J Ross Browne, to make a thorough survey of the granted territory, with the view of instructing themselves where to locate their principal superintendency, and where to lay out their chief towns The first of these commissions starts from this city for La Paz by the steamer of the 31st inst., while the surveying party, which will consist of some twelve or fifteen scientific persons, will leave San Francisco for the same destination on or about the 1st of January next The Mexican Government, as well as the United States Government, have been duly notified of these movements of the company, and while the former gives credentials to the explorers and commissioners of the company the Washington Government quietly takes note of and favors the significant proceedings

We have stated those facts with particularity because we consider them momentous, and also because this grant of Lower California might naturally be confounded with certain Mexican adventures of an unsubstantial character The whole affair is worthy of the attention of the public for it is the initiative of a new destiny and foreshadows a great future for our Pacific empire

FRIDAY MORNING, MARCH 1, 1867.

Who are the Jacobins?

American democracy is the child of French republicanism. By the term American democracy, we mean, of course, the Democratic party of America as it has existed since the year 1792. What French republicanism is, the world knows by proof. Its crimes are an indelible stain upon the page of history.. Lawless, proscriptive, cruel, bloody, fanatical, licentious and infidel, it has left a name which is justly odious to the world, and which grows continually blacker with the progress of time.

When the formation of the Democratic party of the United States began, this horrible travesties of republicanism in France, was at the height. While the revolutionary clubs of France were engaged in their work of proscription and havoc, other societies, formed on the same model, and in close sympathy with them, were organizing in America. Here was the origin of the present Democratic party. It naturally drew to itself all factious citizens, all who were impatient of the salutary restraints of government, and all the elements of turbulence and discord that existed throughout the country. It immediately began a secret attack on the constitutional powers of the General Government—an attack which soon changed to open revolt in the State of Pennsylvania; which was similarly repeated at a later day in South Carolina, and which finally culminated in the great rebellion of 1860-65.

The seeds of all these disorders were brought over from France. In that country the passions of the people know no restraint, and in America men were not wanting to praise this reign of disorder as the consummation of liberty. In one of his letters to Washington, written at this period, Patrick Henry expressed the greatest concern lest the influence of France, then so powerfully exerted in our country through the agency of the Democratic party, should "destroy the great pillars of all government." "Under the patronage of French manners and principles," continued he, "everything that ought to be dear to man is covertly, but successfully assailed." At this juncture, so great did he believe the danger to be, that he came forward with ardor to rescue his country, and to support his old enemies, the Federalists.

There are many Democrats who are fond of comparing the party which has controlled our Government for the past six years with the Jacobins of France. They who do this both betray their own ignorance and heap odium upon their own party. The Jacobins of France are the political ancestors of American Democrats. Jefferson himself acknowledged it. In a letter to Edmund Randolph he virtually asserted that the cause of the French revolutionists was the cause of American democracy. With much concern, he declared that the failure of the revolutionists "would give wonderful vigor to our monocrats, and unquestionably affect the tone of administering our Government." "Indeed," said he, "I fear that if this summer should prove disastrous to the French, it will damp that energy of republicanism (democracy) in our new Congress, from which I had hoped so much." That is to say, American democracy in its inchoation, was identical with French Jacobinism. Whatever would weaken or strengthen the one, would correspondingly weaken or strengthen the other. Who, then, are the Jacobins of this country? That party which is lineally descended from those who first bore that name.

What Jacobinism did in France, it has repeated in America. Defying the law, spurning the most sacred covenants, repudiating all obligations to the Government, it inaugurated in half our country a reign of terror and blood, such as had not been witnessed in any quarter of the world since the days when the deeds of its prototype, French Jacobinism, filled all mankind with horror. American Democracy, so-called, and French Republicanism, are worthy of a place in history together. As they were united by the father of American democracy, none should presume to divide them.

ASSUMES A VIRTUE.—A characteristic article appears in the Herald of yesterday in relation to this paper, entitled "A breach of confidence." The burden of this diatribe is an accusation against us to the effect that in disregard of the "request" of Judge Shattuck, we published part of the testimony in the late murder trial before the trial was closed. Every statement and every accusation in the Herald's article, relating to this paper is utterly false. The Judge did, indeed, suggest to the reporters the propriety of withholding the publication till the termination of the trial. But no "message" was sent to this office in regard to the matter. The Judge did not assume the right to enjoin the publication. A motion was made requesting him to do so, but he declined, and charged the jury not to read anything that might appear in the papers in regard to the trial. No "confidence" was reposed either in us or in the Herald by the Judge in relation to the matter, and consequently there is no "breach of confidence" on our part. It was the intention of the Herald to publish the testimony on Wednesday morning, but finding that it could not get it into type, it invented this dodge to excuse itself. As late as nine o'clock in the evening, one of the editors of that paper said they would publish the testimony the next morning; but failing in their design to get a full report, they gave it up. The whole gist of the Herald's complaint is this: The proceedings at the trial were reported in full for us, and we were able to give them next morning. The Herald was not. We publish a newspaper. The Herald does not give the news. Hence its exhibition of spleen. As to its talk about "honor" and "public decency," we simply remark that such expressions hardly beseem a person who is an outcast from respectable communities where he has heretofore lived. In regard to this whole matter, the Herald simply assumes a virtue when it has it not.

NOTABLE DEATHS.—The death of Victor Cousin, the celebrated founder of the Eclectic School of Philosophy in France is announced. He died on the 14th of Jan. last at the age of seventy-five. His powers as a metaphysician were astonishing. He published numerous works, most of which have been translated into English and re-published in this country. Some of his works are used as text books in American colleges. His examination and analysis of Locke's Essay on the Human Understanding is one of the best known of his performances.

Alexander Smith, the poet, is also dead. His death occurred at Edinburg on the 1st of January. His earliest work, "A Life Drama," was published in 1852, when he was 21 years of age. Since then he has published several volumes of verse and prose.

THE REBEL GENERAL A. S. JOHNSTON.—New Orleans dispatches of January 27th state that the following correspondence regarding the burial of Gen. Albert Sidney Jonston, was published in Galveston on the 24th:

Major General P. H. Sheridan, commanding Department of the Gulf, New Orleans: The citizens of Galveston wish to give a civil escort from the steamer to the cars, to the remains of General Johnston. General Griffith, commanding, has issued a prohibitory order. Will you give authority to citizens here to give a civil escort to his remains? CHARLES A. LEONARD,
Mayor.

Charles A. Leonard, Mayor of Galveston, Texas—Sir: I respectfully decline to grant your request. I have too much regard for the memory of the brave men who died to preserve your Government to authorize Confederate demonstrations over the remains of any one who attempted to destroy it. P. H. SHERIDAN,
Major General U. S. A.

LETTER FROM SAN FRANCISCO.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 23d, 1867.

For a young and moderately sized city, San Francisco is or ought to be distinguished for the number and quality of its hotels. Her first-classers are comparatively numerous and well appointed and conducted. The mystery is how they are supported amid a population no greater than this. But this population is eminently gregarious and demonstrative. It loves to see and be seen,—and to a casual observer the acme of its ambition seems to be, to get far enough to the windward of the world, to be able to live sumptuously and elegantly upon the first floor of a first class hotel, and promenade the Rue Montgomery clad in the latest Parisian adornments.

But it must be considered that this element is what first meets the eye of a stranger. Outside or beyond this, there is doubtless a more substantial and enduring class who purposely avoid this glare and tumult, and cluster round the family hearth and cultivate the domestic virtues and economies. The progress of time and the growth of a population reared under the influences of family and home, will gradually gain the supremacy of society to the house rather than the hotel.

San Francisco abounds in churches, meeting houses and places of worship. Externally they have a solid substantial look, but in their architecture are not always distinguishable from Banks, Theatres, Exchanges and other temples of Mammon. The new synagogue on Sutter street is an impressive building—built of brick with heavy buttresses. The entrance is surmounted by two spires or towers. On each of these towers is a large guilt ball. Some wag of an Israelite, in whom there is no reverence, is said to have enquired why the third ball was omitted.

In company with some Portland friends, I attended service here on Sabbath ere—Friday. The Psalmist or reader in conjunction with the choir, chanted the psalms in the original Hebrew. The former had a fine tenor voice,—the music and expression of which almost made the unknown tongue to me intelligible.

Between this chant upon the shore of the Pacific and the song of Miriam upon the bank of the Red Sea, there was a long lapse of time and a marked change of circumstance. But still I felt that I was in the presence of the legitimate descendants of Moses and Aaron, and could not repress a feeling of admiration and awe for the unyielding and pertinacious fidelity of the Jew to the faith and traditions of his ancestors, as exhibited in this temple and worship so remote from the time and place of their origin.

Grace Cathedral (Protestant Episcopal) is situated high up on the hill at the corner of California and Stockton streets. It is a commanding site from which the eye can take the whole range of the compass except the west. The building is of brick, and inside it impresses you at once with the idea that you are in a Cathedral Church. The stained glass windows are very large and fine, and add much to the general effect. I attended service there on Sunday morning, and heard an interesting and earnest sermon from the Rev. Mr. Goodwin. His reading of the service was slightly intoned. The Te Deum was chanted by the choir. The Psalm was chanted from the Psalter, and not sung from the psalms in metre.

Riding out Market street the other day, we came to the Roman Catholic Church on that street, and my friend insisted on taking me in and showing me a statue of the Virgin, that has lately been placed in the church. On entering, we were met by the Rev. Bouchard—the Jesuit missionary who visited Portland last winter. He acted as our cicerone. The hour was near noon—and as we walked up the aisle, I noticed a number of women, young and old, on their knees at prayer—but no men. The statue of the virgin stands at the head of the left aisle just within the railing that encloses the altar. It is of white marble and life size. She is in an upright posture, with the babe in her arms, and in allusion to the promise to Eve, though not in literal accordance with it—her foot is upon the serpent's head. The face and neck of the Virgin are beautiful, and my friend who is an anatomist and an artist, pronounces them perfect and worthy of study. Theologically considered, the bruising of the serpent's head is an allowable if not a proper accessory to the group, but in an esthetic point of view, it is unpleasant.

Further than this, I saw nothing worthy of observation here, and taking one more look at the artistic conception of her, who was called—"Blessed among women," we took leave of our guide and were once more in the material and dusty bustle of Market street. But I will not soon forget that sweet maternal face. Say and reason as you will, and let creed or dogma teach as they may, with the great mass of worshippers it is more than probable that this maternal marble speaking as it were, to the senses, will engage the affections and devotions rather than the unseen and spiritual God.

The public amusements of San Francisco are of a very low order and even these appear to be at a low ebb. Opera—there is none; occasionally there is a second-class concert, in which the attitudes and person of some songsters is more relied upon than the music. There are plenty of theatres, such as they are; but the legitimate drama is a stranger to them. Ballet girls, leaping puerile pantomimes, and silly, sensation plays, constitute the performances.

The Mercantile Library is an interesting place, and full of rare and new books, besides pictures and papers. But I will reserve this subject until I become better acquainted with its merits. Here and at the Merchant's Exchange, I saw a file of the DAILY OREGONIAN—the only Oregon paper I have seen here.

The Frisconns have a very good opinion of themselves and the place where they live. When speaking of Oregon and Oregonians there is quite a perceptible assertion of superiority on their part combined with a mild infusion of patronizing pity. Their ignorance is their best excuse for this pleasant and self-soothing delusion. The most intelligent and best informed people that I have met in San Francisco are ignorant of Oregon, and its people, productions, climate, typography, etc., as they are of the source of the Nile. Sitting down to table with some very clever and intelligent gentlemen a few evenings since, it chanced that the first course was oysters. While we were making way with the succory bivalves, my right hand man looked up to me and said, in a tone and manner as little calculated to hurt my feelings as possible, "I suppose you have no oysters in Oregon, have you?" "Plenty of them," I replied, after hesitating a moment at the singularity of the question. This statement of oysters in Oregon, seemed to take the company by surprise, but when I called attention to the fact, that, the very oysters on our plates came from Oregon, and that there was no such thing in California, the subject was laid upon the table and we passed on to the next dish.

Many people think that it snows and freezes all winter in Portland and rains all summer. When I told them that I had not seen any ice this winter they were amazed.

The people of any fortune here dress well and live sumptuously. On the subject of wines, they are au fait, and talk and drink wine with any Frenchman to the manor born. Yet it appears from the revelations made in a late trial in the United States District Court, growing out of the seizure of some red wines for under valuation in the invoices, that none of the good brands of claret are brought to this market, and that the stuff labeled Lafitte, La Rose and Haut Brion, were nothing but a tolerable article of vin ordinaire.

It seems to me that a cargo of good Oregon potatoes ought to sell in this market. I have not tasted a tolerably good potato since I have been here, except a sweet one, and that came from the Sandwich Islands.

There has been quite a sprinkling of Portlanders here this winter, but a good number of them return to their "sin good countrie" by the Continental, which sails to-morrow.

For the past two weeks the climate of San Francisco has been either a cold north wind, blowing sand and dust in your eyes till you couldn't see, or hard, driving rain, except two days of beautiful weather. Every one says that this season is an exception to the general rule, and I suppose this is true.

There is a brisk preparation going on here for the nomination for Governor, in the Union party. Gorham, Clerk of the United States Circuit Court, and Bidwell, of Chico, seem to be the prominent candidates. More anon, M. P. D.

RAILROADS IN NEW YORK.—There are many schemes for 4 railroad in New York, among others is a steam railroad under ground. While the people in New York are in a query which railroad to favor, the people of Oregon favor KOHN & PIEHEL with their custom, which they will always reciprocate by selling the best and most fashionable clothing, gents' furnishing goods, etc. for the least money.

NEW ARRANGEMENT.—THEOLD BUCHTEL & CARDWELL PHOTOGRAPH GALLERY, 89 First Street, has passed into the hands of JOSEPH BUCHTEL, Proprietor and Operator, who, having just returned from San Francisco, with ALL THE LATE IMPROVEMENTS, is prepared to take every style of picture known to the art.

A SURE remedy for CHILLS AND FEVER. AYER'S AGUE CURE never fails.

NEW TO-DAY.

Public Sale.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT, BY VIRTUE of a warrant issued by the Directors of School District No. 1, Multnomah county, and State of Oregon, and directed to the delinquent tax rolls for the years 1864-5 and 6, commanding me to collect the taxes thereon as delinquent, I have levied upon and, on the 20th day of March, A. STATE VS. A. H KEESING.—The following is the charge of Judge Shattuck to the trial jury in the case of the State of Oregon vs. A. H. Keesing

This is a case wherein the jury are the Judges, both of the law and the fact; that is, they have the power to make a general verdict which includes all questions, as well of law as of facts involved in the investigation. But the jury are to receive as law what is laid down as such by the Court. Questions of fact are to be decided by the jury alone. Upon questions of law, it is made the duty of the Court to charge the jury. I, therefore, charge you that under this indictment the jury may find one of four verdicts, according as in their judgment the one or the other shall be warranted by the evidence offered upon the trial. They may find the defendant guilty, as charged in the indictment, or guilty of murder in the second degree, or guilty of manslaughter, or not guilty, as they may conclude upon their oath the fact to be.

The statute has defined the different degrees of murder and also declared what shall be held to constitute manslaughter. By these definitions the evidence in this case must be weighed.

Murder in the first degree, as charged in this indictment, is committed when any person shall purposely and of deliberate and premeditated malice kill another. You will observe the elements of this definition, purpose, malice, deliberation and premeditation. To authorize a verdict of murder in the first degree, however, there should be some other evidence of malice than the mere proof of the killing; and deliberation and premeditation should be evidenced by some proof that the design to kill was formed and matured in cool blood and not hastily upon the occasion. As to what shall constitute such proof there is no general rule; but poisoning, lying in wait, and such like are accounted sufficient, and some such facts are deemed necessary to warrant a conclusion of deliberation and premeditation.

A long time between the formation of the purpose to kill and the execution of the purpose, is not necessary to constitute deliberation; but the point to be enquired of is, was the design formed in cool blood? was there second thought taken about it? was there an end set up with coolness and forethought, and a cool and intelligent fixed purpose to compass that end?

You will carefully examine this evidence and if you find in the conduct of the defendant relative to the death of Sicks premeditation, evidence of malice and deliberation according to the rules I have stated, the verdict should be, "guilty, as charged in the indictment."

Murder in the second degree is committed when any person purposely and maliciously, but without deliberation and premeditation kills another.

You will observe that the elements of this crime are purpose and malice only; deliberation does not enter into it. The design might have been formed hastily and upon the spur of the moment. The fact of malice is to be decided solely by the jury, but the law accounts the deliberate use of a deadly weapon, causing death within a year, to be a conclusive presumption of malice and deliberation. Manslaughter is defined to be the voluntary killing of a human being without malice, express or implied, and without deliberation, upon a sudden heat of passion caused by a provocation apparently sufficient to make the passion irresistible, or in the commission of an unlawful act, or a lawful act without due caution or circumspection, involuntarily kills another. If you shall find [illegible] to apply this definition to the evidence in this case, you will notice the facts to be established—an unlawful and a voluntary killing, but without malice or deliberation, in the heat of passion, caused by a provocation apparently sufficient to render the passion irresistible. If upon examining the evidence you find in the evidence itself, or from the want of evidence, reasonable grounds to doubt which of the degrees of murder has been committed, the verdict should be "guilty of murder in the second degree," unless there be the same grounds for reasonable doubt as to whether murder in any degree has been committed. If you can reasonably entertain such doubt, the inquiry should be whether it be manslaughter or justifiable or excusable homicide. If the circumstances under which this alleged killing was committed, were such as the law says, the killing is justifiable or excusable, there should be a general verdict of not guilty.

In this case the defendant does not attempt to justify or set up as his charge upon any principles on which justifiable homicide is allowed, but pleads an excuse; and if this excuse is not deemed proven by the preponderance of evidence, it cannot prevail. The law declares the killing of a human being excusable when committed by accident or misfortune in doing any lawful act, by lawful means, with usual and ordinary caution and without any unlawful intent, or by accident or misfortune in the heat of passion upon a sudden and sufficient provocation. You will mark the circumstances here mentioned, accident or misfortune, lawful act, lawful means, usual and ordinary caution, no unlawful intent, in heat of passion, sudden and sufficient provocation.

As to the confessions of the defendant, they are to be taken for what they are worth. Of themselves, they are not considered sufficient, without something more, either for or against the accused. The details of the confession ought to be corroborated by other proofs. The story related by the prisoner ought to agree with the circumstances of the transaction as proven on this trial. Declarations, not only so far as they are against, but also in the particulars tending to excuse his act, may be taken for or not by the jury. A part may be believed, and the rest disbelieved, according as they are consistent or inconsistent with the facts established by the evidence in the case.

Upon carefully examining the whole case you find the defendant guilty of any crime whatever, the verdict should be "not guilty." But if on the other hand you are satisfied beyond reasonable doubt that the prisoner has committed one of the three crimes of which under this indictment he may be convicted, you will say so by your verdict according to the rules the Court has here laid down.

CHURCH WEDDINGS.—We went to church the other day, and among other things, observed that many of the people, owing to domestic cares, were unable to get there until after the services had commenced. We [illegible] also that these late comers were mostly ladies, who were, without exception, elaborately dressed—had on [illegible] and so on. We allowed our minds to be poisoned with the suspicion that there might be some [illegible] between the two facts of late arrival and good clothes; it is barely possible that we do the parties injustice. At all events, there was no such a thing as an excuse for the fact of the good clothes. A friend, who [illegible] church more regularly than we do, says, that in the [illegible] way of doing it, and that there is a rule by which the whole thing is done. Our friend obliges us by [illegible] the rule, and assures us that non-observance of it is ground for falooding the recusant. Fashionable [illegible] will please read and comply: "Let the lady [illegible] as near pew to the pew she wishes to enter, hall, shake face, and salute. The pew must then be vacated by such gentlemen as are in it, by flank movement. The squad should rise simultaneously when the lady at the head of it [illegible] herself, and face by the flank, then destroy [illegible] the aisle, the head man facing the lady, and the rear wheeling to his right and rear, the direction of the line being changed by a right countermarch, and forming again into line, up and down the aisle, still faced by the right flank. The lady, when she sees that the coast is clear, completes her salute, and advances to her position in the pew. The gentlemen break off by files from the rear and resume their places. Great care should be taken, of course by other parties, not to enter the aisle when this evolution is in progress, until it is completed." That, reader, is church etiquette. It may be a little annoying to the pewholder, good soul, but etiquette is etiquette, and good clothes are good clothes, and both must be [illegible], or there is no use having them.

RUNNER TO CHINESE.—The Alice of the 22d, noticing the [illegible] departure of the Hermann for Yokohama, on the 10th of March, previous, says: "Parties intending to go to China will have a good opportunity to visit Japan by going on this vessel and leaving there on the next steamer. We have a suggestion to make. There are about a hundred dozen Hop Lee, Wo Hops, Ching Tongs, etc., etc., who could be spared as well as not for a trip out home to see their lonely and expectant families. They'd better go on the Hermann.

THE "CONTINENTAL."—This steamer, which was recently [illegible] over the Cascades of the Columbia, was hauled out of the water at the "bone yard" yesterday for repairs. A person who saw her hull says she has a hole in it [illegible] than 2 by 12 feet—crushed through by a rock [illegible]. She ran while passing the Cascades. Capt. [illegible] says if he had the trip to make again, he could bring her through without touching a rock—he found all of them on this late trip and knows now where they are.

DEEP SNOW.—Charley Church, who came down the Willamette yesterday, says that there is from four to six feet of snow on the foot-hills back of Corvallis; and that the mountains are unusually full of it. Charley thinks a warm rain would moisten things some, especially along the [illegible] of the Willamette; to which, we add our [illegible] opinion in confirmation, and we mutually appeal to the correctness of our views, to the passage of Gov. Pierpont's [illegible], delivered in 1862.

RULED TO AGREE.—The jury in the case of the State of Oregon vs. A. H. Keesing, indicted for the murder of C. H. [illegible], after being out nearly twenty-four hours, came in yesterday and reported that they were unable to agree upon a verdict, and were discharged. We learn from unofficial sources that two of the jurymen stood for conviction for murder in the first degree, and ten for murder in the second degree.

HERR, THE BLIND VIOLINIST.—We notice posters around the city, announcing that Herr, a blind violinist, will arrive here shortly and give a musical concert. The performers, Mr. and Mrs. Herr, are now in San Francisco. The Bulletin of the 21st inst. says of them: "They are well-polished artists and worthy people, and deserve far more at the hands of the public than they have yet received."

BLAIN'S PROSPECTING PARTY.—Mr. Blain informed us yesterday that he will be ready to leave the Dalles, between the 5th and 10th of April, for his prospecting tour south of that place. All persons who wish to accompany the party will, therefore, be at the Dalles by that time, fully equipped. Mr. Blain says that Gen. Steele has promised him an escort of soldiers for the expedition.

PITCHARD.—The 6th regular lecture of the course for the benefit of the Congregational Church, has been postponed till Saturday, March 9th, in consequence of the inability of Judge Shattuck to deliver a lecture next in order. Dr. Watkins will deliver the lecture at the time mentioned above.

THE "IDAHO."—We learn that the Idaho was taking in cargo when the Continental left San Francisco, intending to sail for this port as soon as the Montana should arrive. The latter will probably get there on Saturday, and the Idaho may be expected to sail as soon as Monday next.

A LARGE CARGO.—The steamship Continental brought up between 900 and 1,000 tons of freight—the largest cargo ever brought to this port. The greater part of it is for points up the Columbia river, less than usual being marked for places in the Willamette valley.

PASSENGERS.—During the month of February the number of persons leaving Portland by the ocean steamers was 304. The number arriving by the same conveyances was 337. Excess of arrivals, 443.

CHANGE IN STYLES.—The style in silk hats for the spring and [illegible] will be introduced Saturday, March 23, at [illegible] & Bro.

RECORDER'S COURT.—In the Recorder's Court, Thursday, Feb. 28th:

Elizabeth Harrington and Anna Boone, waiter girls, were charged with threatening to kill another. Another separate charge was preferred against Elizabeth Harrington and one against Anna Boone, to the same effect. The first charge was dismissed as the separate charges contained all there was in the first. The defendants were each required to give bonds in the sum of $50 to keep the peace and to pay the costs of suit.

Thomas Apel, charged with indecent exposure of his person in the street, forfeited his bail, $50.

Charles Shultz, drunk and lying on the sidewalk, discharged. The facts in this case were, the defendant was found by officer Hudson about 1 o'clock Thursday morning lying on the sidewalk in front of a saloon where he had been on a considerable spree the evening before, and staff and carried by him and officer Ball, to the jail. When found, he was thought to be dead; was cold and stiff as a corpse. The man himself says that he took a drink at the bar and immediately became helpless and knew nothing of how he came upon the sidewalk. He was conscious when being carried to the jail, but unable to move a muscle or to speak. It is the opinion of the officers that he had been severely drugged.

W. R. Hill and Charles Lawrence were charged with disorderly conduct by fighting. Lawrence was fined $5 and costs. Hill was discharged.

Flanagan, for disorderly conduct on Second street, was fined $5 and costs.

GOVERNMENT FIRE ENGINE.—A new fire engine, for the use of the garrison at Ft. Vancouver, arrived by the Continental and was landed and taken to the house of Willamette Co. No. 1, yesterday, for the purpose of being cleaned up and put in working order. It is a beautiful Button engine of the 2d class fitted with all the late improvements. It is difficult to tell how an engine could be made with any improvement upon this pattern. It is furnished with springs upon which the weight rests while the carriage is running and with a very simple apparatus for setting the engine solid upon the axles at pleasure. One man can do an instant, by an easy movement of a lever, change the weight from the springs to the axle or vice versa whether the carriage is running or standing. The cylinder is 9 inches in length with 7 inch stroke. The brakes furnish easy working train and ship men. The members of Willamette Co. under the superintendence of Foreman Webber, are cleaning and polishing it up preparatory to shipping it to Ft. Vancouver. It will probably remain in this city till Monday, so that all who do have a look at it, can be accommodated. It is probable, also, that when it shall have been put in perfect working order, the boys will take it out and give it a trial.

A WOMAN ON THE RAMPAGE.—A gentleman of white quietly coming down Fourth street from Alder to Washington, last evening, was accosted by a large, fine looking and richly dressed female who seized him by the arm, exclaiming frantically, "Take me back! for God's sake, take me back!" While he thus stood a prisoner, two gentlemen came up, and the three after much questioning elicited the statement from her that she lived at No. —, Third street, and the three started to get her home. It was soon evident, however, that her distraction was that of drunkenness instead of grief, and the men abandoned the attempt to get her home. After leaving her, she proceeded a short distance and entered a private dwelling house and seated herself in the parlor, greatly to the alarm of the inmates. Assistance being called in, she was ejected by force, persuasion being of no avail.

CIRCUIT COURT.—SHATTUCK, JUDGE.—The proceedings in the Circuit Court on Thursday, February 28th, were as follows:

State of Oregon vs. Antoine Henry Keesing; jury men, after being out about twenty-four hours, were unable to agree, and were discharged.

H. Martin vs. Chauncey Hall; judgment entered on verdict for $150 against defendant.

R. A. Clark vs. Musgrove & Screeches; judgment entered on verdict for $25 and costs, against defendant.

Oregon Central R. R. Co. vs. Charles Hopkins; action to recover assessments; evidence of two witnesses taken; trial to be concluded this morning.

THE COLLEGE TO-NIGHT.—We hope our citizens will remember the Philharmonic concert to-night at Oro Fino Hall. The preparations for an excellent entertainment have been carefully made, and we think we may say in advance that no one will attend without being glad of having done so. A good audience will show that our people appreciate the fact of having home talent, and that they desire to acknowledge it.

WILLAMETTE FREIGHTS.—Arrived per Alert, Thursday, Feb. 28—301 boxes apples, 49 hf bbls lard, 12 boxes produce, 11 dressed hogs, 2 sks socks, 118 sks bacon, 9 cases bacon, 34 sks middlings, 1240 qr sks flour, 6 sks dried apples, 18 boxes eggs, 1 sack dried currants, 40 hides, 1 sack hair, 3 rolls leather, 226 sks feed, 25 cases lard, 6 bales woolen goods, 1 case do, 2 tons feed.

FROM ASTORIA.—Capt. Brown, who came as pilot on the Continental, informs us that the Montana started to go to sea on Wednesday morning. Just as she was coming upon the bar, a violent snow storm shut out the view, but Capt. Brown thinks there is no doubt but that she went out. The New World was still lying at the wharf at Astoria.

THE THEATRE.—The highly laughable entertainments furnished by the Tanner Troupe are still continued at the Theatre. A first rate new bill, with a laughable afterpiece, will be presented to-night.

TREASURE.—The receipts of treasure, so far as we have account of it, during the month of February, were $70,000. During the same time, there was shipped away $130,000.

RECONSTRUCTION.—While Congress and the President may not agree upon the question of reconstruction, everybody will agree that any man's wardrobe can be reconstructed at Bafman Bros. for less money than at any other house in this city.

HOW TO HAVE MONEY.—We know of no better way to save money than to re-color garments and thus make them practically as good as new. This can be done by using the celebrated FAMILY DYE, Colors of Howe & Stevens, which are equal to the best French, and ten times as cheap and convenient. Sold by Smith & Davis.

Attention, Co. B, Washington Guards.—Election of officers takes place this evening at 7 o'clock

Are you aware that the pronunciation of Consumption are Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Pains in the side and chest, difficulties of breathing, &c. If you permit these symptoms to run on tuberculosis will be the result, and end in Consumption. Now if you want to cure these diseases use ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM without delay. Consumptives should never give up and think there is no hope until you have tried ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM. It has cured many cases that physicians pronounced incurable. Sold by the dealers in family medicine generally. fi8d&m

PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER is really a valuable medicament, and unlike most of the patented articles of the day, is used by many physicians. It is particularly desirable in locations where physicians are not near, and in families will often save the necessity of sending out at midnight for a doctor. A bottle should be kept in every house.—Boston Traveler. fe18d&wlm

How to Treat Scandal

Ye wise instruct me to endure
An evil which admits no cure
Or how this evil can be done
Which breeds at once both hate and scorn
Rare innocence is no support
When you are tried in scandal's court
Stand high in honor, wealth and wit
All others who inferior sit
Conceive themselves in honor bound
To join and drag you to the ground,
Your altitude offends the eyes
Of those who want the power to rise
The world a willing slander by,
Inclines to all the specious lie
Alas they would not do you wrong
But all appearances are strong
Yet, whence proceeds this weight we lay
On what detracting people say?
For let mankind disgrace their tongues
In vain till they burst their lungs
Their utmost malice cannot make
Your head or tail or finger ache,
Nor spoil your shape insert your face,
Or put one feature out of place,
Nor will you find your fortune sink
By what they speak or what they think,
Nor can a hum bred thousand flies
Make you less virtuous, learned or wise
The most effectual way to balk
Their malice is—to let them talk

(Which is the State of Kentucky,)
January 10, 1867

I wuz rekested a week ago to preech a discourse from the text wich the noble and high-minded Guvner Bramlette used with sich orushin force in his last annual message, to wit: "Kin the Leopard change his spots or the Ethiopian his skin, etc" and allux feelin anxious to do wat I kin for the cause, I did it last nite or rather essayed to do it.

And hear let me romark that there aint a more devoted people in Kentuck than them limbs ez compose my flock. It was a techin site, and one wich filled my sole with joy to see em pour out uv the groceries at the first tootin uv the horn, and to see Pennebaker, wich owns the distillery, stoppin work to come, but the most cheerin and encouragin sign to me, was a playin seven up for the drinks with Elder Slathers, at Bascom's, lay down his hand when he had high, low, and jack in it, and bed only three to go. "Elder," sed he, his voice tremblin at the sacrifice he wuz a makin, and a tear steelin down his cheek, "Elder, tiem's the horn. Let us to our dooties," "Legion must take the front seat on temp'ral matters," and slightin as he cast a partin glance at his hand, he strode out, resolootly to the sanktooary.

I opened by readin the folterin from Guvernur Bramlette's message,

"The nigger is the inferior uv the white—he lacks the power to rise. Until the leopard kin change his spots, or the Ethiopian his skin, all efforts to repeal or nullify God's laws will be unavailin."

My brethren, these words is words uv wisdom, and for em let us be thankful. The skin uv the Ethiopian wuz inflicted onto him for the purpose uv distinguishin him from his brethren, whose servants he was condemned to be, for all time, as a punishment for the sin of Cain or the unprudence uv Ham, wich, Democratic divines haven't settled on. With the black skin he wuz given all the other marks uv inferiority. He was cust with long arms, immense flat nose, and bowed legs, and that ther mite be no mistake in the matter, he was given wool instead of hair, hallelooyy!

Ah, my brethorin, wat a blessed thing for us is this Ethiopian! Wat a consolation it must be to you all to know that ther is a race below you, and how blessed the reflexshun that they can't change their skin, and by that means sit above you. That's the comfort we draw from the scriptures. Wat a horror it wood be for Deekun Pogrim, who is snorin so peacefle,

"Dreamin, sweetly dreamin, the happy hours away."

Ef when the Soopreme Court decides the Ablushun amendment unconstooshnl, and he gits his niggers back agin, ef ther shood be a new dispensashun, and naggers shood be permitted to change ther skins! Wat seekoority wood we hev for our property! Some morning he'd wake up and find em all white persons with it wood be unconstooshnel to wollop.

My brethren, that hez bin many efforts to change the skin uv the Ethiopian, or rather ther hez bin many who wanted to. The Boston Abolushists hev tried it, but wat hez bin the result? Ain't they niggers yit, and ain't they still the degraded wretches they allus wuz? I paws for a reply."

I made this latter remark becoz, and only becoz, it sounded well, not that I had any idee that anybody wood reply. Imagine my surprise at seein a gray headed nigger, with bad chorin and after the fratricidle struggle been employed in the Freedman's Bureau, rise, and remark that he had a word to say onto that pint. There wuz a storm of indignashun and the impudent nigger who wuz so sassy ez to presoom to speak in a white meetin, wood hav ben sacrificed on the spot, had not Joe Bigler, who wuz half drunk, drawed a ugly navy revolver, and remarkin that he had known that nigger—that he had more reason than the whole bilin of us, and he ahead hez his say.

"Ef," said this resolin Joe, "ef he beats you, Professor, trooth is trooth; lets hev it. Ef he don't, why it's all the better for you. Ef your Websterian intellect rivers the ground, all rites of his ponderous intellect gets the best on't, just ez rite. Out uv the mouths uv babes and suck lins." Elder, I go my bottom dollar on this sucklin. Speak up, venerable—there won't none uv em (tech you," and he scokt his revolver.

"Beggin pardon," sed the nigger, "I agree with you, Perfessor, that the Ethiopian can't change his skin hisself, but does the Scripter say that it can't be changed for him?"

"Answ the venerable babe," said Joe Bigler, punting his revolver at me.

"I can't say that it does," sez I.

"Very good," retorted the nigger, "hesent there a change ben a goin on in Kaintuck from the beginnin? My mother wuz as black ez a crow—I'm considable lighter—my wife's a half lighter than I am—my gal's children is a half lighter than their mother, and I want to know what Guvner Bramlett's got to say to that. The white man aint got no cuss onto him, hez he?"

"Speek up Perfessor," the sucklin wants you to be prompt," sed Joe Bigler.

I answered that he had not—that it wuz piled onto Ham or Cain and their disendants, and nobody else.

"Very well, then," sed the nigger, chucklin all over, "ez I am only half Ham or Cain, (wich, you havn't decided) then uv course there's only one half a cuss onto me, only a quarter onto my wife, only one-eighth onto my daughter, only a sixteenth onto my daughter's children, and there's lots uv niggers in this yer vicinity wat hesn't got the thirty sekkund or the sixty fourth part uv it hangin to em. Guvner Bramlette also sed suthin bout niggers bein degraded coz twuz their natur, didn't he, and that eddicashen wooden do for em."

"Perfesser," said the tormentin Bigler "wich bed jest whisky enuff in him to be ugly, "I must remind you that the particksuker babe and sucklin out uv whose mouth yoor being summonsly condemned, expex prompt assent, or rather I, his guardian and protector do."

I answered that sich wuz the tenor uv the Guvner's remarks.

"Ef that's troo, why don't the mullattoes come up faster? Ef it's the natural stoopidity uv the nigger, the white man aint affected by it, and the mullato only half. I are quainted with the heft uv the people afore me, and I'll bet my last year's wages, wich Deekin Pogram ain't paid yit, that half uv 'em can't read any mor'n I kan. 'Pears to me I'd like to hev Guvner Bramlette take the load off us for a year or two and see whether wo'd rise or not. Wo mounts and then again we mount. But I rather think it's a little too much to put a mill stone on top uv a man and then kick him for not gettin up."

"Bully?" sed Joe Bigler. "Go on!" go on!"

"It aint just square playin to make all sorts uv laws again our race, to flog us for havin spellin books, to make it a penitentiary offense to learn to read and to burn our skool houses, and then be dos we aint just ready to enter college, to insist that we are naturally incapable. And shove all aint it possoomin a little to charge it onto the Lord? Aint you mistakin your own work for his'zen? 'Props of Guvner Bramlette's father hed his flogged for wantin to learn to read, and Guvner Bramlett's mother hed his drop up'n a field hand, and the same strategy hed bin practiced on Guvner's Bramlett's grandfat'r's, and great grandfather, and great grandfather, and great great grandfather, and all niggerdom."

"Hold on venerable," sed Joe Bigler, "don't enpmerate. Jest say his ancestors, back to the identical time they wuz slaves to them Normans, wich held his progenitors jest ez closely ez you've hun held, and it'll be sufficient. But go on."

"I plead guilty to the big hunds, flat nose and bowed legs. Possibly the first nigger hed em—possibly not. Ef Guvner Bramlett's father and his grand fa—wich is to say ancestors, hed been kept at the hoe his hands would hev bin ez big ez mine, of they'd burn burdens forever, his legs wood be bowed, and if ther noses hed been per potoously smasht hizzen wood be flatter than it is."

"Hev you any more questions to put to the Professor?" sed Joseph.

"No," replied the Ethiopian, "I hev sed my say."

"Then" sed this Bigler, wich wuz gettin more and more reckless every minnit, I dismiss this congregashun, with this remark, that this nigger is under my protectin care and of a single lock ur his wool is disturbed, I hel feel it a solium buspunessful dooty devolvin upon me to put a ball ir to the carcass ur each ur the offenders in this church, commencin with the pastor, and continuing all the way down to the scribe. Git!"

And pell mell the congregashun piled out—one ever after other.

It will be nec essary to dispose uv Joe Bigler somehow. He lost wat property he had in the war and is becoming exceedingly loose in his talk. He cant be tolerated long.

A story is told of a soldier who, about one hundred and fifty years ago, was frozen in Siberia. The last expression he made was "It is ex—" He then froze stiff as marble. In the summer of 1860 some French physicians found him, after having laid frozen one hundred and fifty years. They gradually thawed him and then, animation being restored he concluded his sentence with "ceeding cold."

Prof Blackie of Edinburg, recently excused himself for having made a silly statement by attempting to make the "blundering reporters" responsible. The reporters held a meeting compared notes, and addressed a letter to the Professor, who was obliged to retract. It is true that reporters sometimes make nonsense of speeches, but it oftener happens that they make speeches of nonsense.

A few weeks ago, a child five years of age, named Quarles, residing in the vicinity of Richmond, Virginia, put into its mouth a small sea shell which it had just taken from its mother's work basket when the shell, slipping down its throat, lodged in its windpipe causing almost immediate suffocation.

A Washington correspondent of the Pall Mall Gazette says "Mr Banks, of Massachusetts, has gained a reputation for profundity by looking wise and never saying anything, even when he makes a speech." John doesn't like Banks since he introduced such a bill for the admission of Canada as a State.

Rev James Freeman Clarke in a recent lecture, said he wondered why young ladies indulged in Italian screams and German moans, under the pretense of singing, and why they did not sing some of the beautiful English melodies which abound in our language—a sentiment which met with the hearty assent of the audience.

The Municipal Councilors of Spain are almost as ignorant as New York Aldermen and Town Councilors, as may be predicated from the fact that out of a total of 72,157 Municipal Councilors, no less than 12,470 are unable to read or write. Among the number are included 432 Mayors and 488 Deputy Mayors.

A gentleman, whose attention at the breakfast table was not to be monopolized by reading the morning papers, remonstrated with his wife for coming down to breakfast to curl papers, when the lady replied "If you indulge in your papers, I don't see why I shouldn't enjoy mine."

A worthless youth named Louis Bruner, residing in Buffalo, New York, recently attempted to extort money from his mother by swallowing some laudanum in her presence. He got more down than he intended, but an immediate orbotic lengthened his life and his mother's troubles.

Finally I had to become a county charge, and when I was taken to Dr G W Brown, and examining case to him and unfortune, he at once commenced to treat my eyes and now I am well, and can send all those that are suffering with diseases of the eyes to call on Dr G W Brown. This is to certify that my daughter was almost blind for over seven years and was doctored by their physicians without obtaining any relief which finally I took her to Dr G W Brown, who examined her case and at once began to give treatment, and her sight has been entirely restored. I do this to let those who are suffering with diseases of the eyes know where they can obtain a cure. It has been three years since her eyes were cured, and they are yet sound.

This is to certify that I was blind for over four months and almost blind for one year and a half. I tried several eye doctors but received no benefit. I had almost given up entirely now hopeless of ever seeing. I heard of Dr G W Brown now of Salem. I was induced to try him, he performed a surgical operation on my eyes and gave me treatment. I soon began to recover, and in a short time I was perfectly cured. I do this in justice to one, who rescued me from a life worse than death, and also for the benefit of those who are laboring under similar afflictions that they may know where they can get relief. It is now about eight mon ths since my eyes were cured and they still remain good. I can see to read the finest print without difficulty, and my eyes can bear the strongest light without pain.

Fountain of Life!

OR

GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER!

IN EVERY PROGRESSIVE SCIENCE PERIODS ARRIVE when a new direction is imparted to its course. These epochs proceed from discovery. These facts shedding light which changes the whole aspect of the science. The present is an epoch of this kind, and Dr HENRY'S GREAT BLOOD REMEDY is now offered to the public, in connection with the theory on which it is based, is destined to effect an entire revolution in the treatment of the diseases of

by eradicating the disease entirely from the blood. The FOUNTAIN OF LIFE is composed entirely of vegetable extracts, it contains no Mercury or other mineral substance.

The Proprietor and Discoverer of this Sovereign Remedy CHALLENGES THE WORLD to furnish anything, from the days of Æsculapius down to the present time, in the arcana of Medical Science, which can vie with or excel the intrinsic properties of this Great Blood Purifier. Its value has been tested with the happiest effect in the most obstinate cases of Scrofula, that baffled the skill of the most eminent physicians in the world. No matter what form the dreadful disease of SCROFULA and KING'S EVIL may have assumed, it can in no way be more safely and certainly arrested in its progress than by HENLEY'S GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER. Thousands have been swept into their graves who had they made a timely use of the FOUNTAIN OF LIFE, might now be enjoying the blessings of life and health. It requires no article of real merit and intrinsic value to sustain itself. During the stern ordeal of public experiment the FOUNTAIN OF LIFE has stood the test trial, and not been found wanting.

☞ Dr HENLEY guarantees to CURE any case of SCROFULA or KING'S EVIL in the world, and eradicate the disease entirely from the system, of no charge made—provided that will be done him by when they are cured.

FOR REFERENCE

I would refer you to L L Peck, of Portland, Oregon, and numbers of others to whom I have given like effect in a short time, in cases that had baffled the skill of physicians for years.

THE OYSTERS

PACKED BY

Louis M'Murray & Co.,

OF BALTIMORE,

ARE ACKNOWLEDGED BY THE ENTIRE BUSIness jobbing trade to be beyond question the best that come to this market. That

THEIR EXCELLENCE IS NOT IMAGINARY,

Any one who has tried them will admit, and the only secret of their superiority lies in the extreme care and attention bestowed upon their preparation. The Oysters are opened by hand with the Knife with which they are taken from the shell, thereby preserving the Liquor, by which means all the original flavor is retained. Contrast this method with the one usually pursued of opening the Oysters in bulk by steaming, by which means the bottle liquor is lost, and a manufactured one is substituted, and you have for the extra superiority of this brand is at once apparent.

Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary,

616 KEARNEY STREET,

NEAR COMMERCIAL,
San Francisco. Established in 1854,

for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases, such as Gonorrhœa, Gleet, Stricture, Syphilis in all its forms, Seminal Weakness, Impotency, etc. Skin Diseases (of years standing) and Ulcerated Legs successfully treated.

Horrible Disease.

How many thousands of persons, both male and female, are there who are suffering out a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgences, or from some abused late in youth. Look at their pale, sunken and diseased faces and their broken-down constitutions, disqualifying them for the happiness or the enjoyment of life. In this horrible affliction thousands suffer until death closes the scene. Let such guardians, friends, attend to those who are under their care, as can be found anywhere—not in clap trap, pomp and show flummery and fine furniture, but in an abundant supply of the very best the market affords.

His Bar room will be kept warmed and lighted and well supplied with newspapers, periodicals and other suitable reading matter, and kept in a manner which will make it an agreeable resort.

In short, he intends making an effort to please all who stop at the BENNETT HOUSE. And he most respectfully requests his friends every where to give the old and well known stand at least one more trial before concluding they can do as well elsewhere, and promises if they are not well treated, and properly cared for, and overcharged for his figures, it will not be the fault of the public's most obedient and most humble servant,

L JAY S TURNEY,
N B—Furnished rooms with or without board, by the day, week or month at the Bennett, charges moderate.

Notice.

NOTICE is hereby given that the Common Council of the City of Portland proposes to improve that part of Fourth street lying between the center of A street and the center of Harrison street, in the city, by grading and constructing side walks as I cross walks where sufficient walks and crossings have not already been built and the streets properly graded.

Said side walks and crossings to be constructed in same manner and of like material as the side walk and crossing just built on the west side of city block 18, except that the wooden blocks under the inside stringer of side walks will only be required where there is one foot fill or more.
